NO COLD WEATHER IN SIGHT. Temperature May Drop Somewhat

During Tonight. Partly cloudy weather for tonight and temorrow was the weather bureau prediction given out by Prof. Frankenfield this afternoon. The temperature may go down to the neighborhood of the freezing point tonight, but there will be but slight change in the temperature, and there is not yet in sight any decidedly cold weather.

The meteorological conditions everywhere are favorable for the gradual thawing of the ice in the rivers, it was said, and the optimistic opinion expressed that the frozen masses will pass out into the open waters without serious damage.

The captains of the Norfolk steamers report the ice on the Potomac to be softening and running with the current from Maryland Point to the bay. Above Maryland Point the ice is still said to be solid, except where a channel has been broken by the passing steamers.

A continuance of the mild temperature

as indicated by the weather reports will, it is believed, soon result in softening the ice to such an extent that it will readily yield to the tides and current and pass down

Attorney R. H. McNeal, representing the administrator, and Attorney E. It was explained that the incumbrance was not placed on the property by the intestate, but by her grantor, she taking the property subject to the incumbrance, and should be paid from the proceeds of the sale of the real estate, thus reserving the personal property for distribution to the next of kin. The question is said to be a

GEN. ESTES' SUCCESSOR THE COURT HECORD

SPECULATION IN G. A. R. CIRCLES OVER MATTER.

Difference of Views - Matter Submitted to Judge Advocate General

The death of Gen. Llewellyn G. Estes last week has raised an interesting question in local G. A. R. circles as to who shall succeed him as senior vice commander of the department. The whole matter has been submitted to the judge advocate general for opinion, as there is some difference among the local members as to just what action should be taken.

The question which comes up in the minds of some of the members is whether or not Gen. Estes was legally the senior vice commander. It will be remembered that Gen. Estes was elected to that position after a hard fight, and that at the time of the installation of the other officers elected at the recent annual encampment he was too ill to be present and his in-stallation was postponed until such time as he could attend. Gen. Estes died within a few days after the installation of his associates. He was never installed. There-fore it is a question in the minds of some of the members of the department whether or not Gen. Estes could be considered ever to have been the senior vice commander The constitution of the organization provides that the department officers shall hold office until their successors are installed. Capt. Hiram Buckingham, the senior vice commander under the old administration, still holds that office, according to a strict interpretation of the rules. As Capt. Buckingham desires to be relieved of the duties of office and refused to permit his election as department commander, the members of the organization feel that they may safely assume that he does not want to continue in office and he has declared himself in this regard therefore they want to know how is the Department of the Potomac to secure a senior vice commander.

Rules of the Order.

Under the rules of the order the council of administration of the department is empowered to elect officers when vacancies occur, but, it is contended by those who believe in a strict interpretation of these laws, no such vacancy exists, as Capt. Buckingham holds office until his successor is installed, and no successor has been in-stalled. A majority of the members of the repartment council are pretty well satis-fied that they would be acting within their rights to elect a new senior vice com-mander, but in order that there shall be no question as to the method of procedure the whole question has been left to the judge advocate general.

Should the judge advocate general decide that the department council has the power and authority to elect a new senior vice commander there is every prospect that the fight that was made by General Estes for election will be taken up again. Mr. B. F. Chase of Lincoln Post, No. 3, who was the candidate opposed to General Estes, will, it is understood again become a candidate for the position, and Rawlins Post. No. 1, which claimed the office as belonging to one of its members, owing to the resignation of Captain Buckingham, who is a member of that post, still asserts its claim, and will probably put forward a candidate. The name of the Rawlins Post candidate cannot be learned at this time, and it is understood that he has not yet been decided upon. Com-mander Martin of Kit Carson Post, No. 2. will also be a candidate for the office, it is said, and will put forward strong claims. However, Colonel Martin comes from the same post as Past Commander Abram Hart, and as Colonel Hart was commander last year and the senior vice commander to be chosen will succeed to the office of depart-ment commander next year, it is believed that the claims of Post No. 1 will have stronger weight than those of Post No. 2. unless Colonel Martin's personal popularity overrides the prevailing idea of giving the department commandership to the posts in order. The whole matter, however, will rest in abeyance upon the decision of the judge advocate general.

BADGE PRESENTATIONS.

Carson Post and Potomac Department

Honor Retiring Commanders. At the close of a recent meeting of Kit Carson Post, No. 2, G. A. R., the doors were thrown open, and the hall was soon comfortably filled by the wives, daughters and friends of the members of the post. Commander E. Douglass King announced that before the program of the entertainment committee opened a time-honored custom in Kit Carson Post would be observed. Thereupon Quartermaster A. Hart, in a short and appropriate address, presented Past Commander J. L. H. Winfield with a handsome diamond-studded Grand Army badge as a token of the high esteem in which he is held by his comrades of the post. Past Commander Winfield replied briefly, expressing his appreciation of the

At this point Past Commander of the Department Brooks, chairman of the commit-tee from the Department of the Potomac, called Past Department Commander Hart to the front and presented him with a massive silver service on behalf of his com-rades of the department. The presenta-tion speech of Past Commander Brooks was received by the audience with applause, as he spoke of the splendid work of Comrade Hart during the past year. The speech of acceptance by Comrade Hart was in his usual happy style.

At the close of these ceremonies Robert Armour, chairman of the committee on en-tertainment, took charge of the meeting and gave the guests a most enjoyable evening. The following program was rendered: Banjo solo, selected, Mr. Arthur E. Yundt; recitation, "Immortal Washington," Miss Langhorn; imitation and whistling solo, Mr. Milton Clark; mandolin solo, Arthur E. Yundt; soprano solo, "Greetings," Miss Mattie Gibson; recitation, "Old Glory," Mrs. Gee; violin solo, Arthur E. Yundt. All the numbers were encored, and the

The Safest Investments

Are those that do not depend upon the financial responsibility or the stability of any individual or corporation. First deeds of trust (mortgage) notes liberally secured on good real estate in the District of Columbia constitute "glit-edged" investments. These are the only kind we make and supply to investors. They bear interest, payable semi-annually, at the rate of Five per cent per annum, and may be had of us in amounts from $100 and upward at par and accraced interest.
